JAYCEES START NEW YEAR WITH ACTION

Mrs. Bertie Edwards, Sr. Citizens Center director, expressed her "warm thanks" to the Hilltop Jaycees for helping the seniors recreation program by sponsoring their bowling team. In an interview with THE FACTS last Friday, Mrs. Edwards went on to report that the team will bowl at Lincoln Lanes each Tuesday in February.

JAYCEE President Murphy stated that his organization, while deeply involved with many community and civic projects, considers helping senior citizens a major need. "Our chapter is dedicated to serving all the people of Tacoma and providing young men with the opportunity to be of help!" Murphy said. Pictured with Murphy are JAYCEE Vice-President R. Chow, D. Pugh, A. Mosley, Lakewood JAYCEE President G. Ahrens, Washington JAYCEE Vice-President Rod Saalfeld, City Councilman Dick Sonntag who is coordinating the bowling team sponsorship with the senior center, and several JAYCEES. Arriving too late for the picture was 2nd Vice-President Steve Griffin who told the FACTS that the Hilltop JAYCEES meet each Thursday at the Esquire Restaurant, 1519 Broadway, at 7:30 p.m. and anyone interested in joining should attend this week's meeting. "Membership is open to young men, 21 to 35, who want to help their community" stated Griffin.

State V.P. Saalfeld spoke at last week's meeting about national JAYCEE week, which is this week, and he reported on the state legislature, commenting that there are 25 legislative proposals which are of concern to the state JAYCEES. Saalfeld also congratulated the Tacoma chapter for sponsoring the senior citizens bowling team and its work with young people.

Board Approves Mental Health Project

The Model Cities Executive Board approved the Mental Health Project at its Jan 26 Meeting.

The project would deliver services to the community by placing counselors in the Adult Outreach, Youth Outreach, Hilltop Children's Clinic, Layman Education Program, and Senior Citizens projects. The intent of the project is to provide help without the stigma of going to a clinic.

Model Cities Director Keith Palmquist told the board that they must assume there will be a Third Action Year and begin setting priorities. The planning areas are education, health, social services, recreational-culture, crime-delinquency, manpower, economic and business development, housing, transportation-communication, and environmental protection and development.

The board made plans to set project priorities at its next meeting.

Mr. Palmquist reported that employees of the Layman Education and Adult Outreach Programs should be payed next Friday. The City is ready to release funds to the projects which will be given to the Central Employment Agency with specific designations for salaries, taxes, Miscellaneous bills, etc.

An Ordinance forming a public corporation for the Hilltop Development Program should be ready for the Feb. 6 City Council meeting, according to Mr. Palmquist. The purpose of the project is to provide Model Neighborhood residents with low interest, long term loans or possibly grants to rehabilitate their homes. The Tacoma Urban League would be the operating agency for the project.

Ella Crawford, personnel committee member, said three finalists for Model Cities director would be interviewed Feb. 1.

THE NEED FOR NEWSMEN SHIELD LAWS

When one reads the First Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, which states, "Congress shall make no law abridging the freedom of speech or of the press". He has good reason to wonder just how valid this amendment is. Since last June, Newsmen have been called before grand juries, state investigative committees and have gone to jail because they would not reveal their sources of information. Such action is an assault on the 1st Amendment and the people's right to know, without Government Interference.

A recent Gallup Poll revealed that 57 percent of the American people feel that Newsmen should be protected from prosecution for refusing to reveal their sources. It is evident that without such protection, many important exposures would not be revealed if the press loses its right of confidentiality. The Welfare of a Democratic Public depends heavily on an informed public. Without protection such as shield laws for Newsmen, freedom of the press would be endangered as a result of court orders and other official attempts at restriction. If Newsmen are compelled to reveal their sources, then their sources will become reluctant to give confidential information and Newsmen will become reluctant to publish it for fear of being forced to testify or go to jail.

Newsmen should have such privileges which are enjoyed by a man who cannot testify against his wife and vice-versa and a lawyer who cannot be compelled to reveal information given to him by a client. A bill is presently being introduced into the Senate which will protect reporters from disclosing their sources to legal authorities and provides that the only time a Newsman would be required to reveal their sources is when they are being sued for libel. Such legislation will ensure not only a free press, but also a free and well informed society.

Mortgagors Flee Cities

An National Urban League study of investment practices of a dozen major savings banks and savings and loan associations operating in Bronx County, New York, has disclosed a pattern of changing investment policies based primarily on race.

Executive Director Vernon A. Jordan, Jr., in releasing the preliminary results of the study, charged that some financial institutions "are participating in a massive disinvestment policy that undercuts their own growth, is helping to destroy the cities in which they operate, and betrays their depositors."

Mr. Jordan made his remarks at the 79th Annual Conference of the Savings Bank Association of New York, in Boca Raton, Florida recently.

"In 1970, for all of the institutions we studied, only 12% of the number of all mortgages made were in the Bronx, and these accounted for only 17.8 percent of the value of all mortgages made."

Jordan added, "Racial factors accounted for 41% of the variation in the number of mortgages granted by the institutions in the 14 community planning districts located in Bronx County. The changing racial composition of the Borough resulted in the changed mortgage lending policies."

"We see how hard earned dollars of the poor blacks and Puerto Ricans are used, not to improve their own housingand neighborhoods, but to finance housing in racially restricted areas outside the Bronx," Jordan said.

A similar pattern of mortgage discrimination is evident in the St. Louis Metropolitan area.

Blacks purchasing homes in former white areas are having trouble finding financing. Even those Blacks who have purchased homes in the areas and then attempt to sell them are having the same trouble in the County municipalities. Yet black dollars are being used on a large scale to finance county building and expansion.

A decided change is needed.

The lending institutions should be obligated to invest in their home communities.

Perhaps this is a matter that the state legislature should be encouraged to look into immediately.

Certainly the need for attention is there.

Operating Agency Changed

The City Council voted on Jan. 23 to make Model Cities the temporary operating agency for the Layman Education Program (LEP) and the Adult Outreach Project until new agencies can be found.

The Council's action removed the Central Employment Agency as operating agency because of its poor fiscal management of the two projects. Model Cities is looking for new operating agencies, probably the Tacoma School District for LEP and the Urban League for Adult Outreach.

The employes will become temporary project employees of the City under the supervision of Model Cities. The City will now be able to pay salaries of project employees who have not been paid for the last few months.

Councilman George M. Nalley suggested that the project employees might be at fault as well as the operating agency, but Councilman Dick Sonntag siad, "There has been no problem with delivery of services. It has nothing to do with the qulaity of the people working in the community. We should save the employees who have done the job."

Model Cities Director Keith Palmquist said he thought that contracts with new operating agencies would be ready for Council approval in the next few weeks.

A contract for the Homemaker project was approved. The project had been terminated in December when State funds were cut from the project. The new program will have three home health aides, and the services will be available to needy families which are not on public assistance.

The Council also approved hiring a consultant to evaluate Model Cities and to plan how the successful parts of the program can be incorporated into City government. Mayor Gordon N. Johnston said that the purpose of the study would be to make Model Cities responsive to the needs of the entire City.

RED CROSS READY TO ASSIST POW'S AND FAMILIES

The Tacoma-Pierce County Chapter of the American National Red Cross is ready to assist families of prisoners of war and civilian prisoners in any situation. N.S. Penrose, Jr., Chapter Chairman stated "Our 1,900 volunteers are ready to help families with travel arrangements, financial assistance, care of young children and other personal needs that may arise. The primary conern of the Red Cross is to be of all possible assistance to the men themselves and to their families."

It is expected that upon release, the former prisoners will enter normal military medical evacuation systems and be returned to the designated hospitals in this country as rapidly as is consistent with their medical needs. Where required medical treatment can be provided, the designated hospital will be as near the home of the former prisoner as possible. Military hospitals overseas, designated to receive prisoners as they are released, are staffed with Red Cross personnel. Red Cross comfort kits and supplies have been stockpiled by Red Cross at key locations on military installations in foreign countries to be made available to the men.

Dividends Due Many Veterans

Congress has passed a bill which entitles all veterans of World War II to a dividend of 50¢ per $1,000.00 of their GI life insurance for each month they were in the service, whether or not they still carry this insurance.

Many veterans have not received this money that is due them and they will not unless they ask for it! To find out if money is due, write: Veterans' Administration Center, Fort Snelling, Saint Paul, Minnesota 55111

Include Name, Address, City and State, GI insurance policy number (if Known), branch of service, serial number, date of birth, dates of enlistment, induction and discharge. The Veterans Administration urges all World War II veterans to apply for this benefit.

OPEN DATING

Because our perishable foods (such as meats, eggs, dairy and bakery foods) sell so fast at Safeway that they are off our shelves in a matter of hours, freshness is assured. But we take no chances. The perishable foods Safeway manufactures or processes, carry dates which our store people use to make certain that only fresh foods are sold. Here, for example, is how the date looks on a carton of Safeway brand eggs:
A date is printed on the end of each carton. When the numbers "2/ 6" appear, our employees know the carton is not to be sold after Feb. 6. Being positive no carton remains on our shelves after the printed date insures that all Safeway eggs you buy will remain fresh and good for many more days with proper home refrigeration.

UNIT PRICING

Sometimes it's very difficult to determine the very best buy from a group of items. This program gives you available information showing the "Price per Pound," or "Price per Pint," or other unit comparison that best fits the group of products. For instance, the "Price per Pound" will be shown on tags for all sizes and brands of canned peaches, while the "Price per Pint" will be shown for all canned juice items. Of course, in making decisions as to which items are best for you to buy, you'll want to keep in mind taste, eating and appearance differences and the purchase amounts best suited to your family's needs.

Youth Discuss Veneral Disease

Health seminar participants talk about the information given them earlier in presentations by local medical professionals.

About 50 people met at the Ujamaa Culture and Recreation Center Saturday to discuss venereal disease and health problems.

The seminar, sponsored by the Model Cities Youth and Health Task Forces, is the first in a series of sessions planned for the Second Action Year.

Dr. Tim Lipman, Ft. Lewis physician, Kermit Smith, Health Dept. Epidemiologist, and Stephanie Radford, Washington State Pharmacists Association, emphasized the need for open discussion of venereal disease to help prevent the problem. They all explained the symptoms and preventions for the disease.

Bil Moss, Planned Parenthood, Lucille Trucano, Tacoma Schools, and Rosa Franklin, Hilltop Children's Clinic, talked about the services provided by their organizations.

All of the speakers formed a panel and answered questions from the youth attending the seminar.

Later the problems of venereal disease were discussed in a small group session.

STEP Goes Active

Tacoma's Selective Traffic Enforcement Program (STEP) begins next Monday, February 5th after experiencing several delays due to vehicle delivery dates being changed.

Project Director, Lt. Robert H. McConnell said the ten officers assigned to the STEP Project are currently undergoing an intensive week of training in various areas of traffic law enforcement and officer-violator relations.

McConnell said the officers are "attempting to place themselves in the violator's position so they may view the enforcement contact from the other side."

He added, "We feel that by doing this, we can reduce the misunderstanding and conflict which so often arises in traffic stops. Overall, the entire training session in officer-violator relations is being exceptionally well-received by the men. It is a new approach to the subject and one which should have considerable effect on how the men deal with the public in the field."

The STEP Project was originally scheduled to begin December 1, 1972, however delays in manufacturing the Plymouth Fury IIIs to be used in the program delayed the starting date until mid-December and then mid-January.

All of the vehicles were delivered in Tacoma late this month with final installation of radio and emergency equipment being completed in plenty of time for the project's first day.

STEP will study and demonstrate various types of traffic law enforcement and evaluate each method to determine its actual effectiveness on reducing accidents and accident-causing violations at a specific location.

McConnell said previous statistics concerning the locations, plus violation counts, would provide information for determining the individual countermeasure's effectiveness.

STEP is a three-year federally-funded program designed to formulate a program which will reduce the actual number of traffic accidents and accident-causing violations in Tacoma. It is one of six such projects located throughout the U.S., sponsored by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

Eyewitness News is now twice as good.

For years Channel 7 has delivered more minutes of news every day than any other television station in the area.

Yet, we're still not satisfied. We feel we can do a better job.

Particularly in the early evening news.

That's why we've created a brand new Eyewitness News at 5:30 p.m. Every week night. For the early dinner news watcher.

If you've been a regular 6:30 Eyewitness News watcher, don't be alarmed. The 6:30 news stays just as it has always been. Except it's even better.

We've added to the news staff. We have some innovations in coverage. And we've compacted more news stories into the 30 minutes.

Both Eyewitness News programs are covered by the full Channel 7 news team—Clif Kirk, Sandy Hill, Ron Forsell, Ron Barr, Gary Justice, Kim Marriner, Ann Martin and our other news specialists.

And in-between at 6:00 p.m. with national news is Walter Cronkite.

Watch both tonight. At 5:30 and again at 6:30.

OPENING DOORS TO EDUCATION

by Don Hines

The Clearinghouse for Minority Education opened in early January, and Director Mary L. Harper said, "Even before we had set our goals, we had students coming in the door asking for help."

While planning goals, hiring a staff, and setting up an office at 1321 S. K Street, the clearinghouse helped a girl from Mt. Tahoma High School get the financial aid she needed to enroll in the University of Washington. She had given up hope for a four-year college education until she went to the clearinghouse.

Staff member Jerry McLaughlin said that the agency is trying to help some of the people who don't get taken care of under other programs.

The purpose of the Clearinghouse for Minority Education is to provide information about educational opportunities for minorities and disadvantaged and to help students apply for these programs.

Not only does the staff give information about financial aid, tutoring, housing, curricula, etc it answers personal questions too: How many minority students does the school have? Do they have a place where minorities can get together and feel comfortable? What is the community like?

The clearinghouse is a result of the Washington State Conference on Minority Education held in June, 1971. Another outcome of the conference is a book of educational opportunities called "Minority and Disadvantaged Program Inventory"

In addition to this resource book, the clearinghouse is gathering a library of brochures, catalogs, and handbooks from colleges, universities, community colleges, vocational schools, and business colleges in Washington. The staff calls itself an extension of these schools relaying information to prospective students.

The staff not only finds programs to fit students needs, but it acts as a representative of the student helping him to get accepted into the program. Counselors are on duty from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily (383-1771).

Solving educational problems for minorities and disadvantaged people requires coordination with other programs such as Model Cities and the Metropolitan Development Council. "We have connections with most programs," Mr. McLaughlin said.

Mrs. Harper said that the clearinghouse has to work closely with high school counselors because the clearinghouse may have more information on programs for the disadvantaged than the high schools do and because the staff has more time to give personal attention to individual problems.

As students and members of the community, Mrs. Harper says that her staff can relate to the problems of the people they are serving.

The federally funded project operated by the State Office of Higher Education only has six months to prove itself. If it doesn't, it will be ended at that time.

Because of this six month trial period, the staff will be working hard to meet the February and March deadlines for many of the financial aid programs that begin next fall. Mrs. Harper said that the clearinghouse must make an impact on summer and fall terms or the project will close its doors.

Plea For Help

Here I am again. Last week I requested you lend a hand to some of the residents in Shelton. This time around I would like for you, our people, to consider helping a beautiful brother right here in the Community. Many of you know the young man but maybe it's necessary for me to try and bring you up to date on some of his activities. By the way, his name is André Young.

André spent quite a bit of time in the lock-up for something he feels he was innocent of even to this date. The time I speak of was almost 10 years; a long time. During this time he spent many hours, reading, learning, and helping others. He was one of the first (I believe the first) person in this area to bring attention to the Sickle Cell problem. I remember when he brought this problem to the attention of the Balck Panthers.

He is presently working on the Executive Board of the Minority Concerns Task Force; Chairman of the Law & Justice Committee of the same organization; a board member of the P.A.C. (Project Area Committee) for the Neighborhood Development Project which is funded by Urban Renewal in conjunction with Tacoma Model Cities; and is an active member in several task forces of Model Cities.

I won't try to tell you all the things Andre is doing or all the people he is in contact with while trying to help the community, but I can! I'm pretty tight with him and we work together rather closely. Because of all the work Andre is doing, he is in dire need of a job. Running around, making meetings, etc., takes a lot of gas for one thing. Some of his attempts at getting a job have been hindered to the fact that he has a record. Is this right? Morally right?

If he's paid his debt to society and if in fact we cannot afford to lose him because of his ability to help many of us in the neighborhood, wouldn't it seem right for us to forgive or forget the past and let him earn a living? Am I wrong in asking whoever out there who may read this article to help? Am I wrong when I ask you to remember he still feels he was innocent? Is there anyone among us who cannot believe that there are mistakes made in court just like everywhere else?

If you have to read this article twice, please do. If you support this line of thinking placed before you, please try to help. Who is going to be the next Andre? Maybe you son, brother, sister, or someone close to you. Thanking you in advance.

Garden World

tips from the American Garden Guild.

PATHS AND WALKS IN YOUR GARDEN

With the restrictions of winter weather upon us, now is the time to plan on adding paths and steppingstones to your garden. Jack Kramer, author of GARDENING WITH STONE AND SAND (Scribners), says paths and walks are more important than they may seem. They should be a means of moving through the landscape, be esthetically pleasing and add a design element to the garden. Indeed, without paths or steppingstones, a garden may often appear bleak and uninviting. It is the paths and the material used that tie the landscape picture together.

When designing for your garden, make gradual turns in the path (never abrupt ones), for in a garden sudden visual changes are distracting. Since there are so many variations with steppingstones, it is impossible to set forth rigid rules. But one guideline should be a linking theme throughout. The steppingstone path is man-made, but, like the garden, it should appear natural, as if it has been there for many years.

ANIMAL HEALTH HINTS

BY DR. MIKE ADAMS
HOFFMANN-LA ROCHE INC., NUTLEY, N.J.

HIGH ON THE HOG

There's more than a grain of truth to the belief that some grains for feeding hogs vary considerably in the amount of vitamin H (biotin) available to the animal.

Biotin analysis of wheat varied from 60 to 40 micrograms per pound. And biotin in barley varied from 90 to 40 micrograms per pound. Interestingly, all feed grains showed a difference in biotin analysis of about two to one.

Published research reports, and levels derived from extensive practical experience, suggest that 70 to 100 milligrams of supplemental biotin should be added to each ton of feed for swine production under confinement conditions. The symptoms of vitamin H deficiency--which include an animal walking with a great deal of effort--can be countered.

7 slayings in Muslim mansion shock sect

WASHINGTON — Their shoes, as was customary when members of the Hanafi Madhab Muslim sect met in their mansion in the upper middle-class Shephard Park neighborhood, were left by the door.

A few feet away a plaque identified the building as national headquarters of the sect and added, in Arabic, "In the name of God, the merciful, the compassionate."

The children slept upstairs. The adults sat in the living room discussing the Koran their concepts of peace anc brotherhood.

Inside the home, given to the group by professional basketball star Kareem Abdul Jabbar, himself a member who occasionally stayed overnight, the small, devout group seemed serene.

Within minutes the late afternoon calm would be shattered by a spasm of violence that left two adults and five children methodically slain and two women critically wounded.

As many as eight men are being sought for the murders. Police said the men, all blacks, may be members of a rival Muslim group.

The tragedy began when a car pulled to the curb a block south of the Muslim mansion. The men, armed with handguns, got out and began walking along the tree-shaded sidewalk toward the house.

The men passed a row of expensive homes with carefully manicured lawns and, right next to the mansion, a synagog. The neighborhood, once predominantly Jewish, has been integrated by affluent blacks and now is often referred to as the black Gold Coast.

Neighbors saw them, some carrying suitcases, pass through the gate of the heavy, wrought-iron fence surrounding the house. Neighbors were used to occasional overnight visitors going there.

Moments later a neighbor heard several sharp reports. She thought it was a car backfiring.

A couple who live in the Muslim group's huge house returned from a shopping trip just then.

When they got to the door, they heard a commotion inside. The woman went next door to call the police, while the man went to the back of the house. He saw four men burst through the door and come running out.

He went inside and found the bodies.

The two adults and two of the children had been shot to death.

He found three other children — the youngest only 2 weeks old — drowned in an upstairs bathtub.

The two wounded women each had been shot several times in the head.

Police have clamped a tight security lid on the Thursday afternoon killings, saying only that it was an "execution." There were no signs of a struggle.

Only the two wounded women and three of the children have been identified.

One woman, now in serious condition, is Almine Khaalis, about 20. The other, Bibi Khaalis, 26, the daughter of North Carolina civil rights activist Dr. Reginald A. Hawkins, is in critical condition.

Three of the dead children were Bibi Khaalis'. One was a boy, 3; another was a girl, 1, and the third was a 2-week-old girl.

Two handguns and a sawed-off shotgun believed used in the slayings were found near the home.

One neighbor said she saw a man chase four men out of the house, and that he may have been wounded when the gunmen fired four shots at him, but police would not comment on this.

A woman was said to have run from the house about the same time and told neighbors, "I know who they are, and they will pay."

The Hanafi sect has been described as "very peaceful, very sincere, very kind." They believe in a literal interpretation of the Koran and consider themselves the true followers of Islam.

About 10 members live in a communal arrangement in the house, which has served as national headquarters since Jabbar bought it in 1971 for $78,000 and made it available to the group, turning over ownership last November.

The sect reportedly has about 1,000 members nationwide, and was organized in New York City several years ago. Most members are in their 20s, most of them college-educated.

Country Style Singers

Stax's country artist O.B. McClinton meets another country artist Charley Pride at the Annual ASCAP (American Society of Composers, Authors, and Publishers) Awards Dinner in Nashville. McClinton's latest single "Don't Let The Green Grass Fool You" (Enterprise Label) is currently riding high on the top country & western charts.

It was reported that toward the close of his career, Mark Twain received a dollar a word for a magazine article. A wag once sent him a dollar with a note saying, "Dear Mr. Twain: Please send me a word."

Twain replied to the request with a single sheet of paper with the one word on it: "Thanks."

Mirrors May Save Your Life

Your dresser mirror may save your face, but your car mirror could save your life.

On multiple lane streets and highways, quick glances in the rear-view mirrors are imperative for safe driving.

Rear-view mirrors come in various sizes—the larger the better. Adjust them before you drive to give the same coverage as looking directly out the back window. Modern cars have mirrors designed for both day and night to reduce glare.

A left-mounted outside mirror gives you a view of what's approaching in the left, or passing, lane. Always check it before moving into the left lane. It lets you look around someone sitting in the front seat with a tall hairdo. You should ask the person, however, to "take off the wig" or change her position because best vision is through the rear window.

Mirrors won't make you a safe driver unless you use them constantly.

Keep looking for traffic approaching from the rear which, even at slow speeds, might be dangerous.

If we had to acquire the land for Northwest Trek, it would probably be several years before it would be self-supporting. With land already deeded, projections show a profit potential even in the first year's operation. That means passage of the bond issue will probably not cost us a cent.
